

Suburban Bungalow

Greenwich, Sydney 1996

info@barrettpinet.com

BARRETT PINET ARCHITECTURE

Schematic Design

Alterations and additions to a suburban bungalow to improve street front, take greater advantage of the city views from the redesigned top level, a new masterbedroom with ensuite and adjacent studio. The new roof and the top level open up to the east letting light in through to the ground level. The ground level is also modified to improve the relationship with the garden, and the street. The front and mainly the upper floor on the eastern side of the house are completely restructured, and more modest alterations are proposed to the west and rear of the house.

